REGULATIONS ISSUED

Must Furnish Sworn Evidence of Work Performed and Other Particulars

As a result of the scarcity of farm laborers, certain privileges granted last year to certain immigrants have been removed. According to a word just received from Ottawa, Regulations enacted by order in council provide that during the remainder of the year 1918 the holders of homestead grants, emptions, or purchased homestead entries, who are not bona fide agricultural laborers within the Dominion of Canada, may be allowed the period of one year to furnish sworn evidence of the required period of residence in connection with their application.

Subsequent Entry Date.

Conditions laid down provide that the time of application to be counted as the date of subsequent entry.

case. Its provisions of the order do not apply to unperfected proxy entries, nor to any case in which the entrant is engaged in any other employment than actual farm labor. As soon as possible after the entrant commences work it will be his duty to forward to the district agent of factory to the minister of the interior giving particulars of the land held under entry, the nature of the work performed, where performed, date of commencement, and probable duration.

MUSE FILE SWORN EVIDENCE.

Within thirty days after the term of employment has expired and in any case not later than Feb. 1, 1919, the entrant must file with the local agent for the district sworn evidence of that any person who has been on active service in the naval or military forces of his majesty or of his majesty's allies during the present war, shall be entitled to all the benefits and privileges conferred by sections 22 and 23 of the Dominion Lands Act upon the members of military forces and of the Canadian volunteers." This provision is retroactive to May 8, 1915.

The Women Were Heard From

The women's conference held at Ottawa at the instance of the government dealt with the following subjects:

Declared against sending grain underground to Britain until the military and naval needs of the province had been satisfied.

Urged prohibition of the export of intoxicants from one province to another.

Objected to the employment of young boys in increased food production owing to danger of their physical injury.

Urged the establishment of a department of public health.

Demanded equal wages for women rendering equal service.

Declared for a minimum wage for women.

Advised voluntary registration of help for farmers' wives in the belief that the proposed national registration would come too late.

If the meeting of the provincial premiers with the Ottawa conference thus handicapped for life there are many calls to service today that those who cannot help men in the trenches and hold back the enemy.

None is a call to more honorable or more useful service than that addressed to former teachers who return again to the class room and help keep open the doors of opportunity for the boys and girls.

Ignoring Truies.

What is the matter of a treaty between anti parties as the Huns and the Bolsheviks? A peace pact has been signed, but the fighting continues on the same scale. May it long continue, to the vast damage of both.

No Ground for Exemption.

That the Dominion authorities have imposed a tax upon incomes and that the provincial authorities may do likewise is not reason for exemption from the tax.

The cities should not be given preferential treatment. All taxes are paid from the same source. The amount of assessment may be employed. A tax on income only does directly—and more fairly—what other taxes do indirectly.

In the case of a city-income tax, provision should of course be made for exempting the poor. But the proportionate share under property or other assessments. But there is no apparent reason why a man enjoying a good income and paying no other taxes to the city should be excused from paying a city income tax just because the Dominion and Provincial authorities are calling upon him to pay his share to the Federal and Provincial treasuries.

Farm the Town Site.

The Edmonton townsite comprises 16 square miles, or 10,240 acres. Assuming that half that area is occupied with buildings, streets, and lawns, there are 13,440 acres available for cultivation inside the city.

If half that area is devoted to wheat, the acre the harvest would yield more than a quarter of a million bushels. That is more than enough to supply the flour required by the people of the city for a year. Of the 6,720 acres left, 3,360 acres could be planted to potatoes, yielding 400 bushels to the acre would produce 1,344,000 bushels more than the city could eat in 12 months. Six thousand acres would be left over for the production of other sorts of vegetables and grains. So far as Edmonton is concerned, the question of food production should be solved if we could farm the townsite. The nearer we come to doing that next summer the better for the individual, the city, and the country.

Tax Themself?

A correspondent suggests that the Government impose a special direct tax upon the profits of protected manufacturers as a means of raising war funds. The proposal has been suggested before, under conditions which seemed more favorable to success. That such the day of the tax, the Government has no reason to doubt that the manufacturers appear to be having an unusually prosperous period in this time of general hardship.

The disadvantage of the scheme is that it does not seem possible of accomplishment. It is supposed that the parties whom the Government and the public want to tax are the manufacturers who have not been hit by the war.

So thorough-going a "protection" paper as the Toronto Telegram was constrained to protest last day that the Government's new move is now more completely in control at Ottawa than they were the day of the first move.

The chances of getting the protected manufacturers' tax are not in the hands of the Government. It is in the hands of the manufacturers themselves. They are not bright enough to warrant the tax.

Under Menus.

"Shut that door!" yelled the rough barmen. The man addressed meekly and quickly went out, but the speaker, looking at him a moment later, noticed that he was in tears.

Over to his victim, he apologized. "I'm sorry," he said. "I'm sorry. You should not take it to heart because I'm sure you were raised in a better home."

"That's it, that's it," he said. "I was raised in a better home and I'm sure you were raised in a better home."

"That's all right," he said. "I'm sure you were raised in a better home."

"At the Flaming Forge of Life—"

—the fortunes of a world are being wrought.

Néver have men of any age seen what we are seeing. Never have changes so violent, so tremendous, so rapid, in the entire structure of national, business, and social life heaped up the very foundations of the world. Never have so many new problems, so many demands for readjustment, thrust themselves upon men and women for settlement.

Things big with fate are happening fast. They are arousing violent prejudices, with clashing opinions in every assembly, and in every newspaper where the minds and hearts of men find expression.

The need for exact information is imperative. Clear understanding of what is going on is indispensable. Busy men and women throughout the nation are demanding to know the real facts and the real meanings of them. Confusion, uncertainty, mistake, lack of correct information may mean disaster to their dearest interests.

Why, in all this turmoil of events and jangling voices, are more than two million earnest men and women turning, each week, to THE LITERARY DIGEST?

Why are more than 282,000 manufacturers and merchants reading it closely? It is not devoted especially to factory or trade.

Why do more than fifty thousand physicians and more than forty-six thousand lawyers buy THE LITERARY DIGEST? It certainly is not a medical journal, nor is it given over to discussions of law.

Why is it bought regularly by more than eighty thousand officials of the United States and Canadian Governments, officers in public service companies, bankers, contractors, builders, and engineers? It does not specialize in any of their particular affairs.

Why do more than a hundred thousand newspaper editors, publishers, superintendents of schools, educators, libraries, colleges, and professional men subscribe for THE LITERARY DIGEST? It is not planned particularly for them, nor for the many thousands of brokers, real-estate dealers, or other special classes of active men and women who are finding it their most valuable magazine.

One all-controlling reason must be given. We're in a world crisis. The United States and Canada, together, are carrying the greatest burdens that can come to a free people. All of us, business men, professional men, officials, and laboring men, are first and last, loyal citizens, and these tasks and problems come straight home to us. Our blood and our treasure are called into this supreme struggle of humanity. We must know how to win, and how to adjust our business, our homes, our personal lives to the new conditions. There is no time for roundabout, fragmentary, or unreliable information. There is no strength to waste in prejudice or partizanship.

Nowhere, except in THE LITERARY DIGEST, is it possible to find all the vital news of world events clearly and truthfully explained, without editorial bias, together with an impartial record of the leading opinions of men and women, newspapers and magazines from every land in this great, throbbing world of action.

THE LITERARY DIGEST is the one satisfying magazine for all men and women. It knows no party, no creed, no social division. It brings, each week, to all alike, the important things of business, of politics, of industry, education, religion, science, literature, and art, and of the great happenings of the world war.

Lord Northcliffe, publisher of the London Times, speaks with reason, then, as well as authority, when he says that "THE LITERARY DIGEST is the most indispensable weekly publication in the world."

THE LITERARY DIGEST has searched for you the work-shops and has read for you the thousands of newspapers and magazines of civilization, and it tells you what they are all doing and saying.

THE LITERARY DIGEST has reached into the power houses of the world, and it connects you by its own live wire, each week, with the great forces which are remaking the nations of earth and changing the destinies of humanity.

THE LITERARY DIGEST stands close to the "Flaming Forge of Life," and out of the white heat of a world's mighty labors, and strivings, and discussions, it brings TO YOU, week by week—

"Each Burning Deed and Thought"
